Adventure Story Writing

LO: To write the beginning of an adventure story.

Using the plan you created yesterday, today we would like you to write just the beginning of your adventure story.

Remember, the beginning of the story sets the scene, include lots of detail about your setting and characters, get your reader ready to think what the problem will be and what will happen next!

You could watch some of these videos from the Literacy Shed Adventure videos to give you some more ideas. Can you stop the video after just the beginning?

Amazing Adventure Author's Steps to Success!

- correct punctuation—capital letters, finger spaces, full stops, commas, exclamation marks
- good sentence structure—read your work out loud, does it make sense?
- interesting adjectives—make sure your reader is gripped!
- check your spellings—have you used your sounds to help you?
